Subject: Response of the Indian Police to Covid-19 Crisis

1. The Bureau of Police Research & Development (BPR&D) has been striving over the last five decades to promote good practices and standards in the Indian Police. During the ongoing Covid-19 crisis in the country, the Police personnel have gone out of their way to help the general public in 24x7 mode. Many success stories have been reported in print and electronic media. From these, one can infer that the Indian police personnel are willing to go beyond their call of duty to help all sections of society at the cost of their health and even life. Police personnel across the country have contributed immensely in implementing lock down, providing relief and assisting those in need.

2. The BPR&D intends to bring out a special edition on “the Response of the Indian Police to Covid-19 Virus Crisis” by including all such success stories provided by State/UT Police and CPFs. A few selected personnel shall be felicitated during the release of this special issue at the BPR&D Headquarters at New Delhi.

3. This edition shall also be sent to all ministries as well as electronic and print media to create a brand image of the Indian police as a force which is not only professional and competent but also humane and service oriented. In addition, this shall be a record of extraordinary and exemplary work by the Indian Police personnel and shall act as a source of inspiration to future generations of police personnel.

4. It is, therefore, requested to provide the success stories of your respective State/UT Organisation on the above subject to the undersigned latest by the 15th May, 2020. To enable faster processing, the matter may also be sent to my email id: igmod@bprd.nic.in. Kindly nominate a nodal officer as a point of contact for speedy communication.
